The South Side's Empty Houses.

The injury to many parts of the South Side of the city, and especially to the Twenty-first ward, through not being supplied with natural gas, is as the cold weather approaches getting to be a matter of frequent comment. Houses in these gasless districts are now being ticketed for rent, as their occupants leave them for more favorable localities. While the North Side is prospering by reason of this excuse, and rents have an upward tendency, good property in many places on the South Side goes tenantless. An actual count in the first precinct of the Twenty-first ward shows eighty-two empty houses.
